AUSTRALIAN FIRST NATIONS SCHOLARSHIP

stanwell
ENERGY'S FUTURE

TARONG POWER STATIONS

This scholarship supports Australian First Nations students connected to the South Burnett community, assisting with the transition to university while living and studying away from the region. Through financial assistance, mentoring and work experience opportunities, the scholarship helps create pathways into future careers in the energy industry while supporting students to maintain strong connections to culture, community, and Country.

Co-designed through a partnership between Stanwell and the Wakka Wakka community, the scholarship reflects a shared commitment to creating opportunities for young people in the region.

What you will receive:

- Financial support during your studies
- Mentoring from industry professionals
- Vacation work opportunities
- Potential pathway into the Stanwell Graduate Program

Who can apply:

- Australian First Nations students connected to the South Burnett Community
- Australian First Nations students who are currently studying or planning to study at university.
